Overdraft Information

Banner Bank does not charge overdraft fees on this account if there are not enough funds available in your account to cover the amount of a transaction. In cases where there are not enough funds to cover an amount, the transaction will automatically be declined. It is important to note that while Banner Bank does not impose fees in cases like this, the merchant or third party could charge you a fee.

Banner Bank does not charge overdraft fees on this account if there is a negative balance. Typically this account prevents you from overdrawing in most cases, there may still be times when your account could have a negative balance.

Banner Bank offers overdraft protection on our other checking accounts. Overdraft protection protects our customers when there are not enough funds available in their account to cover the amount of a transaction so that the transaction can still be processed. If interested in overdraft protection, you can talk to a Banker at your local branch to discuss our other checking account options that include overdraft protection. Those accounts allow you to opt-in to overdraft protection and link your other Banner Bank personal checking accounts, savings accounts, or personal lines of credit to your protected account so that funds from those accounts can be transferred to prevent overdrafts on the protected account.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>2</sup> Minors (age 12-17) are eligible to be an account owner if a parent or guardian (age 18 and older) is also an owner on the account. All account owners have full rights to withdraw, deposit and transfer funds.

<sup>3</sup> Overdraft protection by line(s) of credit subject is to credit approval and limited to residents of Washington, Oregon, Idaho or California, or to current Banner Bank deposit clients.
